Take It Homework

Hi Friends,

Do you know what the goal of preaching is? Seriously, when the pastor stands up front and gives that 30 minute message, what is the goal at the end? Well, in general, I'm shooting for one main thing—Life Change. I want the Word to impact our hearts and minds in such a way that we are not the same; that we are transformed; that we are changed. So, the Take It Homework today is hopefully going to help you move in that direction.

- When you first heard that the sermon today was about "living differently," what came to your mind? Why?

- As Christians, do you think we are called to live differently? Why? How?

- How are you different as a Christ-follower than you would be as a non-follower?

- Who is someone who you think lives a wonderfully "different" life for Christ?

  -What is different about them?

  - How do they find the strength/courage/conviction/ability/power to live that way?

  - Is there anything that they're doing that you could apply to your life?

- How might God be calling you to live differently?

- Finally, let's get specific. Commit to one way (just one) that you are going to live differently from this point forward as a Christ-follower. This can be something you start or stop doing, an attitude change, a priorities change, a time and energy change, a financial change, a relationship change...whatever you believe God is calling you to do differently. Now, before you make your final decision on what that is, stop right now and pray. Just ask God to reveal the change He wants. Really listen and commit. Now, go and live differently.
